

Drawn Into the Heart of Reading

An Award-Winning Multi-Level Reading Program to be used with any books you choose...written to teach 7-15 year olds to savor books as they read more deeply!

Imagine your child curled up on the couch, engrossed in a wonderful book, savoring each page, and then animatedly sharing with you the excitement of what was read! Well, this dream can become a reality – get ready to put the “heart” back into reading with Drawn Into the Heart of Reading!

This flexible reading program will help your children either become or remain passionate about books, while still teaching necessary reading skills. Based on clear instructions and engaging activities, this innovative program will work with any literature. And...you not only get to choose the books your children read – you also get to choose the pace at which they read them! Children will no longer be mindlessly racing or trudging through books with too much or too little accountability. They'll be reading at the pace best suited for them, and better yet, they'll be reading books you know they're interested in because you'll handpick them based on their interests and abilities! It's no wonder this well-rounded reading curriculum has the prestigious honor of being chosen for Cathy Duffy's 102 Top Picks for Homeschool Curriculum!

Drawn Into the Heart of Reading features 9 incredible units with complete reading plans organized around the 9 different genres of literature. This ensures that your children will read from every type of literature and results in your children not only learning the necessary skills for each type of literature, but also with them finding new kinds of books to love! These genres can be taught in any order, so you can start with their favorite types of books or choose an order that matches other topics you're studying. Genre kickoffs, prereading activities, story element lessons, Godly character traits, vocabulary activities, graphic organized workbooks, discussion questions, and creative projects all work together to fashion an exciting, thorough approach to reading. Finally, you can totally enjoy teaching your children reading, with the peaceful assurance that all of your “bases are covered”!

In the “Genre Kickoff” part of the program, your children will be introduced to each new genre in a fun and entertaining way. A list of inventive genre kickoffs is given at the beginning of each unit, so you can pick the one that most tickles your fancy! For the “biography” genre, maybe you'll have your child gather 5 objects special to him in a sack, and then take them out one at a time, sharing why each thing is important. Or, maybe you have an artistic child, so you'll choose the kickoff that has your child make a scrapbook page telling biographical details about herself. Or, perhaps you've got a "mover and a shaker" of a child, so you'll choose the kickoff that has your child take a tour of your house and note what can be discovered about each family member. Whatever genre kickoff you choose, your child is sure to enjoy it and find out more about the upcoming genre at the same time!

In the "Godly character traits" part of the program, your children will learn important character traits with each genre. Each trait has a simple definition and a key Scripture verse. Children use their Bibles to read about a Biblical character who showed the trait, listen to you as you share a time in your life when you've shown that trait, search for characters in their books whom are – or are not – showing the trait, and finally search their own hearts for evidence of that trait. This soul-searching part of the program not only helps children want to become the best person they can be, it also helps you as a parent have a Biblical method already in place for discussing book characters' behavior!

In the "story element lessons" part of the program, lessons connect story elements with the genres they'd most naturally match. So in the "adventure" genre, "problem/conflict" is studied, in the "mystery" genre, "prediction/inference" is studied, and so on. This instruction is often either missing in younger reading programs, or is often taught in such a sporadic way that it is quickly forgotten. In contrast, Drawn Into the Heart of Reading recognizes that story element instruction taught in a natural and meaningful way at younger ages paves the way for success with future in-depth literature studies. Likewise, a few well-chosen discussion questions give the cozy feeling of taking part in a book club, while also encouraging better comprehension and analyzing of characters.

Finally, the "creative projects" part of the program will have your children ending each genre unit study with a bang! Three project options are always offered to ensure your children can find a project to get excited about, and each project is designed to reinforce the genre while also celebrating completing the unit. One of the options is always character trait-based, another is book-based, and the final option is a group project. For example, when completing the genre "historical fiction", your child might create a faith encouragement card for someone experiencing hardship, or make a mask representing an integral character from one of the book(s) he read, or work with other family members to perform a character role play of a social event from the historical time period that was studied. Five days of plans at the end of each unit are set aside for the creative project that is chosen, which gives more than enough time for completion. Each of these projects also has simple detailed directions and a reflection form to do at the end, making this creative project time truly doable and enjoyable for both the children and the parent!

*Now, why not see what other homeschoolers are saying about
Drawn Into the Heart of Reading?*

“Overall I really like the flexibility of this sort of reading program that allows parents and children to select their own reading material.”

for Homeschool Curriculum

“Carrie provides us with a map to journey to the heart of a story. Her teacher’s guide and student books lure us along the scenic back roads, beckoning us to discover treasure buried in books.”

Valerie Bendt - author of Reading Made Easy

“We started using Drawn Into The Heart of Reading right after you came out with it. It was the only literary analysis curriculum we used. We used it with books the kids were reading for literature and history. This year my oldest went to public high school. He entered as a Freshman and after only one semester was put into the Honors English program.”

Sue in Castle Rock, CO

“After pouring through the Teacher’s Guide and all three of the Student Books, I am more and more enthralled with this program!”

Jolene Underwood - The Homeschool Source

“The name of this curriculum drew me in, but the quality and ease of use made me stay.”

Stephanie Scarborough -
The Old Schoolhouse Magazine

“With Drawn Into the Heart of Reading I feel that we are balancing skill development with real reading experiences. We absolutely can’t wait for reading every day.”
Debbie in Denton, TX

“I just wanted to thank you for Drawn Into the Heart of Reading. It really challenged my girls this year and was definitely a highlight. They read genres we might never have tried, did projects I don’t normally take time for, read a few books beyond their skill level because they were so enticing, and slowed down their reading to enjoy story elements and character qualities.”

Andrea in Howard, OH

"Drawn Into the Heart of Reading" Placement Chart

If you are not sure which Student Book level of Drawn Into the Heart of Reading is best for your child, use our Placement Chart below to help you decide. Simply circle the rectangle in each ROW that best describes your child. The COLUMN with the most circles is the most appropriate placement for your child. If you have more than one child, a good strategy is to use a different color marker for each child. If your child is not an independent reader, see the choices in our "Little Hearts" series for phonics or emerging readers instead. If your child is high school-aged and beyond the skills in this chart, see our literature study in our "Hearts for Him Through High School" series instead.

Drawn Into the Heart of Reading Teacher's Guide

This guide is the heart and soul of the Drawn Into the Heart of Reading program, and without it the program will not work. Whether you have one child or multiple children, the Drawn Into the Heart of Reading guide is bound to be one of your favorite guides ever! Easy-to-use daily plans are divided into 3 levels of instruction and are designed for use with children of multiple ages at the same time. Children ages 7 to 15 years old can use this year after year either for their entire reading program or as a supplement to another reading program. That means one guide to purchase and one guide to become familiar with for children ages 7-15 years old. Add up what you spend year after year purchasing new programs for reading, and then add up the time you waste just getting to know new guides or programs, and you'll quickly appreciate this gem of a guide! [ages 7-15] ($86.95)

Drawn Into the Heart of Reading Student Books:

Tired of repetitive, fill-in-the-blank, and multiple choice type questions? Then come on over and try the award-winning Drawn Into the Heart of Reading Student Books! These books are filled with graphic organizers that will have your children drawing, diagramming, listing, webbing, and categorizing to connect with their reading in interesting ways. The Reading Calendar makes it easy to plan the pacing for the books you choose and helps your child know what needs to be read each day. And, there are even "Emergency Options" that you can use if you are short on time!

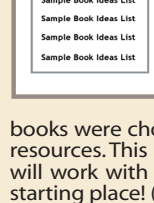

These student books work hand-in-hand with the Drawn Into the Heart of Reading Guide to provide a complete and balanced reading program. This powerful two-pronged approach will have your children loving reading and building their comprehension skills, book by book! There are 3 levels of student books, and each level of student books corresponds to approximate graded instructional levels.

Teacher Directed

Focus: Prereading Activity - Secret Passages

Preparation:

- Prior to meeting with the students for day 1, follow the directions for Getting Started listed in the back of this guide.
- Have the first book and one Assigned Reading Calendar ready for each student.
- You will need a folder or barrier of some sort between you and the students, so you can hide the covers of the books with the passages for today's lesson. If you have only 1 student, you will need to have several books from this genre beside the book he or she will be reading.

Lesson:

- Say, Today we will be doing a prereading activity to help you think about the read book you will be reading.
- Set out the books the students will be reading, but do not tell them who will be reading which book. Allow the students to briefly look at the titles, covers, and illustrations for a few minutes.
- Say, I will be reading several sentences from one of these books to you. Your job will be to guess which book has that passage.
- Hide all the books behind your "barrier" and read a few sentences from one of the books. Then, set out the books in front of the students and have them guess which book had that passage. Have students give reasons for their choices.
- After each student has guessed, show students which book contains the passage.
- Continue steps 3, 4, and 5 until you have read several parts from each book.
- Give students the books you have chosen for them. Allow them time to carefully read the title, look at the front cover, read the synopsis, and look at the illustrations.

Biography - Day 1

9. Discuss the following questions with your students:

- What question(s) would you like to ask the person in your book?
- What made you think of that question?
- What makes you think a biography?

Students open their Student Books to the Assigned Reading Calendar for the genre. Help each student fill in the page numbers to be read for days 1-5. Students read the assigned pages for day 1 on their own.

Biography - Day 2

Level 2/3

Focus: Story Discussion and Optional Phonics or Vocabulary Work

Preparation:

- You may choose to have students at this level review phonics or complete a vocabulary assignment. Use your own program for the phonics review. Refer to the Appendix for a reproducible vocabulary assignment. The lesson on this day is much shorter to compensate for the additional time you may spend on phonics or on vocabulary work.

Lesson:

- Optional phonics or vocabulary work
- Listen to your students read the assigned pages out loud to you. Use the Reading Strategies list and the Qualities of Good Reading list provided in the Appendix to help you know what to emphasize.
- Discuss the following questions with your students:
 - How would you describe this person?
 - What problems does this person have up to this point in the biography?
 - Where is this story taking place? Describe the place.

Independent / Teacher Directed

Focus: Story Element Instruction - Character Web

Level 4/5

Lesson:

- Tell the students to read the assigned pages on their own, leaving 3-4 pages to read aloud to you.
- Listen to your students read several pages. Use the Qualities of Good Reading list provided in the Appendix to help you know what to emphasize.
- Work with the students to complete the Character Web on day 2 in the Student Book. List at least 3-4 examples for each category on the web. You may wish to write answers on a marker board as you discuss them, so the students can copy them. Then, the students can concentrate better on the discussion.
- Discuss the following question with your students:
 - How are you similar to the person in this biography?

Biography - Day 2

Independent

Focus: Vocabulary Builder - Prediction Practice

Level 6/7/8

Preparation:

- Have a dictionary available.

Lesson:

- The students complete the activities in the Student Book and read the assigned pages for day 2 on their own.
- The directions instruct students to come and show you the completed Prediction Practice vocabulary assignment.

Book Projects to Send Home

This optional reproducible resource provides fun and exciting book projects that can be used at the conclusion of each genre. Simple instructions, introduction tips, and presentation ideas make the projects in this book easy to do. The Drawn Into the Heart of Reading guide always gives 3 different ways to celebrate completing each genre. The Book Projects to Send Home is one of these scheduled options. This option is always hands-on and creative, and open-ended enough to be used with any book you read. Whether it's fashioning a puppet, building a diorama, or crafting a mobile, these book projects will bring out the "artist" in your children!

Book Packs

These optional book packs are for use with Drawn into the Heart of Reading. The Level 3/4 Books are for average to advanced Level 3/4 readers. The Level 4/5 Books are for average to advanced Level 4/5 readers. The Level 5/6 Books and Level 6/7 Books are for average to advanced readers as well. The Level 7/8 Books include more mature topics, making the reading levels vary a bit more in these particular sets. Keep in mind that even though younger readers may be able to read these books within the 7/8 sets reading level-wise, we do not feel the 7/8 sets are suitable for younger readers due to the maturity level content-wise. These book sets were created to save you time and to help you find quality books at the right reading level. This is one of the keys to a successful reading experience for your child.

Please keep in mind, these specific titles are not needed, but each book was very carefully chosen as an excellent reading selection for the noted reading level. Drawn Into the Heart of Reading truly works with any books you choose. The genre, suggested number of reading days, and price are listed behind each book title. There are always 15 days of reading in each genre (this leaves the last 5 days of the genre to be used for the end creative project).

Consumables If you have more than one student using this curriculum, you will want to order additional copies of items that are consumable (one-per-student). In our website's online store, we list all the consumable items for each guide, as well as the package where each item is included. In this way, you can decide which consumables to order based on the packages you chose to purchase. See www.heartofdakota.com for consumables.

Need some help deciding what to order?
Check out our step-by-step directions in the box below!
